

AISA International NGO (International Association Sufi Al wiyya) is recognized by the United Nations as having “Special Consultative Status” with ECOSOC and has been working to create an International Day of Living Together (IDLT or JIVE in French) since November 2014.

In 2017, the project entered a decisive phase: a workshop held at UNESCO House in Paris on May 19, 2017 concluded with the Paris Declaration, which listed the IDLT project within the framework of 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) that the signatories committed themselves to promote and achieve. This autumn the IDLT project will be submitted to the UN General Assembly. So we decided to put the end-of-year meeting into this dynamic by dedicating it to the theme of “Living Together, the Reconciliation of the Human Family”.

This meeting’s program will include two round tables on December 30 and 31. The first one will focus on “How to build a society for Living Together” and the second will be entitled “Giving a Soul to Living Together”. These two round tables will bring together a number of internationally renowned speakers bringing their knowledge and experience in this field.

Your participation, reflection and action will become a cornerstone of Living Together for humanity worldwide. Bringing together intelligence and the experiences in the service of all.

The meeting ends with a traditional spiritual New Year’s Eve celebration.
